FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Masters Hall of Fame announces Lisa "The Black Widow" King will be an Inductee at August 2009 Masters Hall of Fame Event.

June 24, 2009, Moreno Valley, CA -Daniel Hect, Chairman and CEO of the Masters Hall of Fame (www.MastersHallofFame.com), has announced that Lisa King aka The Black Widow, will be one of the inductees at The Masters Hall of Fame 10th Anniversary event, to be held August 8th, 2009 at the Long Beach Convention Center, Long Beach California.

Lisa King has dedicated her life and professional career to the martial arts. An outstanding role model, Lisa is a champion Full Contact Muay Thai Fighter. She's the mother of two, and also an executive protection agent providing security for high-end individuals. Lisa is a martial arts instructor, an actress and spokes model, runs a full-service marketing firm, and is a well-respected ring announcer, fight matchmaker and commentator.

Lisa has numerous TV and film credits including ESPNs "I'd Do Anything" and "Ring Girls," and the feature film "Fight Girls," which spun an 8-week reality show also entitled "Fight Girls" on the Oxygen Network. She was named Black Belt Magazine's "Woman of the Year" in 2007. Her latest endeavor is wFighter.com, a website dedicated to professional women fighters and their fans.

Giving back to the community is central in Lisa's life. She has served on the board of the American Cancer Society, has been actively involved in fund-raisers for ACS and other charitable organizations, and teaches martial arts classes free to battered women and teens.

Lisa continues to do everything she can to promote and educate the public about full-contact female fighting, MMA and Muay Thai. Her greatest motivation and inspiration are her two children. Facing challenges and achieving each new success is her way of showing them that anything is possible.

The Masters Hall of Fame nominees are martial arts leaders that mentor, teach and demonstrate excellence, honesty, and loyalty in all aspects of their lives. "As an organization, the Masters Hall of Fame believes it has a responsibility to develop excellence in the martial arts; and to recognize martial artists that embrace life as other exceptional martial artists have done in the past. We believe Lisa King to be such a Martial Artist, and why we will be honoring her at our Event." Said Dan Hect, Chairman and CEO of the Masters Hall of Fame
